

NATIONAL PATROL RIFLE CHAMPIONSHIPS

If you're looking for a venue to improve your firearms training programs and enhance your agency's risk mitigation efforts, you've found it. Welcome to the NPRC!

ATTENTION TRAINING OFFICERS: The Oakland County Sheriff's Office is hosting the 2023 NPRC on October 14th from 8a to 7p at the Multi-Lakes Conservation Club located at 3860 Newton Rd., Commerce Twp., MI 48382. This training event costs $99 per shooter if you register before August 31 ($119 afterward). It is MCOLES approved for 302 funding. Space is limited. No walk-ins allowed. To REGISTER click this link and make sure you select NPRC (LEO) in the drop-down field. For more information on the NPRC, click this link.

The NPRC is now in its 23rd year and is America's oldest ongoing patrol rifle and active assailant training event. This one-of-a-kind event allows you to immerse yourself in patrol rifle training, education, and research.

What can I expect to experience and learn at the NPRC?

Each course of fire is unknown to the attendee (just like it is on the street) until they arrive at the NPRC and are subsequently briefed by the instructors. The COF's change every year, so there is no way to prepare for one specific skill. This format challenges participants to shoot the course of fire by reacting as they would on the streets of their own jurisdiction using their issued equipment and departmental training. The attendee's performance is then scored to help them identify their strengths and weaknesses in comparison to their peers. If your equipment fails you here, consider it a blessing and make the necessary changes to ensure it doesn't happen on the street. The bad guy will not give you alibi rounds, redo's, or sympathy and neither will we during this reality-based training event. Attendees must be in good physical condition to participate in this event. The courses of fire are generally 200 yards and closer. They can include moving targets, multiple adversaries, target identification, judgment in the use of force, various shooting positions, movement, physical exertion, and mental stress. The event includes at least four live-fire graded exercises. Each attendee must bring 100 rounds of rifle and 10 rounds of pistol ammunition. Check the event rules for equipment requirements and restrictions.

How does the NPRC BENEFIT your Agency?

The organizational benefit of having officers participate in this independent assessment of their individual skill while using your organization's equipment and training can be invaluable, both on the street, and in a court room. Regardless of how your officer scores in comparison to their peers, your agency will be able to unequivocally articulate that it took proactive action by sending officers to this spontaneous based training program as a method to validate your training program and help in identifying where individual or organizational performance could be improved. Each student will receive a training certificate, t-shirt, ChamberSafe and various swag that is graciously donated by our vendors and sponsors. Officers returning from the NPRC will bring back a detailed event program with courses of fire that can be used by your agency's instructors during in-service firearms training. Additionally, your officer(s) will learn invaluable lessons from the Chudwin Award Recipients debrief and from the research they conduct at the simultaneous vendor show and sponsor's live-fire range exhibition. The learning experience at NPRC is unmatched in the law enforcement firearms training industry

Event schedule

Check-in starts promptly at 8a, followed by a safety and event briefing at 8:30a. At 9a, your rifles will be inspected. At 9:30a, three courses of fire will open. Lunch is served at noon (brats, chips & pop). Training resumes after lunch and normally ends about 4p when the sponsors host a reception at the club house. At 4:30p this year's Chudwin Award Recipient for Patrol Rifle Excellence gives a debrief on their engagement. At 5p, dinner is served (prime rib or chicken). At 6p, the winners are announced, scores are posted, prizes are awarded, and raffles take place. By 7p the event will be over.

Show & Sponsor's Live-Fire Range Exhibition

The NPRC provides a simultaneous vendor show and a live-fire sponsor's range exhibition that is FREE to all attendees to assist in your ongoing equipment and services research. Seeing products on a vendor's table at a tradeshow is one thing but being able to live-fire the sponsors products will provide you with a whole new perspective on their viability for your application. The vendor and sponsor exhibitions are free and open from 10a to 3p to all attendees and your guests.

Patrol Rifle Utilization Survey

Please consider sharing info on your agency's patrol rifle engagements. The NPRC has engaged in this research project to gather information on the use of the patrol rifle by LEOs while fighting criminals. It's our hope that this information will ultimately help law enforcement agencies, their firearms instructors and industry manufacturers make improvements to their operations to help save lives. NEW For 2023 - NPRC OPEN – Flier for distribution to your citizens!

We are inviting QUALIFIED CITIZENS to come train and compete with their law enforcement officers (LEO's). Our goal in doing this is to give law enforcement agencies a unique opportunity to help promote the event as a means of improving their community's readiness for violence and their relationships with their counterparts in the fire and medical services (medics, nurses, doctors), not to mention their citizens, politicians and business owners who are all stake holders in a community's response to violence. We are offering an optional discount program for our citizen attendees' consideration. If they sponsor (pay for) any active or reserve duty LEO(s), active or reserve duty military, or qualified active-duty fire/medical service professionals to attend the NPRC, their entrance fee will be reduced.

- SPECIAL NPRC OPEN offer: Any citizen who sponsors any of the professionals outlined above by paying their entrance fee of $99 before August 31st, 2023, will only pay $99.00 for their (citizen) slot in the NPRC OPEN.
- Please support these frontline professionals if you have the financial means to do so. Thank you.
